

Well, it's been an exciting week around here. I saw my first bear IN MY DRIVEWAY (!), and I missed being a shark snack by one day in Rhode Island. If that's not summer fun on the Shoreline, I don't know what is. Still time to cram in lots more, including the Shoreline Jewish Fest AND 1st Annual Taco Fest in Guilford this weekend, Pop-Up Shop with 60 curated vendors in Milford, Nina Simone at Goodspeed, The Delaney Sisters at Ivoryton, and an Alpine Fest at the Ocean House. Keep an eye on our events calendar for more.

Love, Erica

The Steward Outdoor Day School at Incarnation Center in Ivoryton, CT is a new outdoor elementary school for students in grades K-8. Bushy Hill Nature Center Director, Jen Gannon Malaguti, opened the school's doors in January, "I have been dreaming of this since I was a young Bushy Hill camper! Our classroom is 740-acres and includes a private, mile-long lake. The environment is inspiring and naturally engaging for students, making the lessons they learn, regardless of the topic or academic focus, more meaningful and lasting." The Steward Outdoor Day School is the day version of the already established Steward Outdoor School, a residential, semester-long middle school. Students in small, multi-age cohorts participate in thematic, experiential lessons throughout the various habitats found on the 740-acre campus. Classes run Monday-Friday from 9am – 3pm, September to June. To learn more or to book a tour, visit www.stewardoutdoordayschool.org or call 860-767-0848.
